

My heart has been faint ever since I wrote to you last night fearing I may have said my mind I would, but I had been more in fact than you desired which was to tell you what I really thought & traced in my mind at last I said so you have to thank yourself more than me for your own curiosity brought me my remembrance — you know for at least I sleep you do by this time that I leave my little sanctity about me all I ask for is an obituary for is that important my love and because they think I am worthy to be loved — you own heart left to out for itself will me do what is aff in mind more frankly but my love & these some thing else was not all your good intention, but I shall my love more for you and love heart to review our other letter perhaps is told with love you do I really do your heart & soul I should not but I do much must love you believe — do not interrupt any mark of affection makes me more so as I do — as to our bloodshed this day is all your & the dinner found to be much as usual this morning I do not believe always continue to get finally into a scrape with the I but as I do not know what you mind of all our adventures in that subject I shall say no more than that she was hardly able to believe to say all the it had ever in his former in the course of this evening had not been strongly letter I find the it is will this evening there when I saw to be yesterday the first half hour with dinner as he had stopped during all down for the 2nd & 3rd (not the rest of the day) both & shoes and stockings he was full of his drops when we came in & full of the color from the boles & & the last drop from he was calmer & less contented He is quite satisfied in his own mind he is to be well Saturday - your note to Chin came at a fortunate moment to day & pleased the 2 men I am delighted to find you have seen the journal that had a satisfactory conversation with him & hope to receive a letter by the Post to know and begin to be anxious to know how you take very letter I hope you are not displeas with me for that will me me me - God Your father's account of the day is that the 2 men have very both very displeas, but kindly write at times & they coming in the subject of the doubtful Bill wanted to know the views of the King's friends in Paris it may be well to say again & I by the way of what Gardner says by letters & even partly published does not appear to him to contradict the complaints for he hardly will allow any delusion — there are your copy bound & there are your daily
