

Her Royal Highness
Princess Augusta

(43)

AA

July 8th 1811.

My Dearest Brother

When I left the dear King this morning my heart was too full to write to you, but I wished that the King frequently telling you how very kindly he mentioned you. He especially said how glad he was he had spoke so frequently to you the last time he had seen you - and said inward our again how well you had conducted yourself - I know what happiness it will give you to hear it, and that you are well aware what a joy it is to my heart to inform you of it I saw upon a first meeting, saw the thing as well as any calm - the Queen and myself were with them half past two. He spoke most kindly of dear Amelia, but without any degree of enthusiasm so that I am certain the more she talks of her the better. - The Queen has mentioned your visit to her as having been a great comfort to her, &
I really think her mind seems more easy since that day
It is rather better though you fear not

God bless you my Dearest Brother

Believe me your most truly affectionate

Friday Night
27. 8th 1811

Augusta

[Faint, illegible handwritten text on a piece of lined paper pasted onto a larger sheet.]