

Windsor Castle, February 2^d 1820

My Dearest Brother

It is quite impossible for me to find words to express all that my heart feels at this moment; But to be kind a Brother as you have ever been to me, I am conscious it is needless to say more, than that your own good heart will best explain the sensations of mine. My affection for you cannot be stronger now than it has always been but the endearing title you now bear, which I have ever loved and respected will I am certain be loved most tenderly by me, and look up to with that respect which is due to the King, and to the head of my family -

My both of Allegiance to you, is being the Child of the same Breve and Parents as myself - and that kind Brother to whom I shall ever mean to be the

Affectionate Sister - sincere friend and Dutifull Subject

Elizabeth

