

H. C. to Lord North

1253

? Feb 1772

x
Lord North, The opening of this Session is very honourable as I trust provided no unexpected fatality arises that it will prove an easy one, and with a capable Administration to propose right measures, and not postpone any from apprehension of difficulties. The Message concerning Marriages in my family ought now to be drawn up;
I trust you have prepared an answer to the Address.

[Faint, illegible handwritten text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.]