

George Grenville

Nov. 25 1763

45

4

I beg Leave humbly to congratulate your Majesty upon the Transactions of this Day which upon the whole have been as advantageous as is possible. The Division was 256 to 133. The Debate & the Opinion of the House was as favorable as could be wished. The Names of the Speakers are contain'd in the inclos'd Account. Mr Yorke's Speech was in every Respect the greatest Performance that could be made. In the Division Mr Fitz Maurice Col. Barre & Lieut. Col Calverly all Voted in the Minority as well as Gen. Conway. Many Gentlemen went away from the great Length of the Debate. The Conference with the House of Lords in order to communicate these Resolutions is ordered to be demanded to morrow, & the Speaker, who was with difficulty able to go thro' with the busyness of this day, has entreated me to know your Majesty's Pleasure whether you will be attended at half an hour after two to morrow noon, as in that case the form of the Conference would be demanded of the House of Lords before the House of Commons waits upon your Majesty, which it will otherwise be impossible to do, & if that time is improper or inconvenient to your Majesty, the House of Commons will attend your Majesty earlier, & in that case the Form of the Conference must be post pond till Monday.

I hope to receive your Majesty's Orders upon this subject, & your Pardon for the imperfect manner

George Grenville

Nov. 25 1762

45⁽²⁾

in which I obey'd your Majesty's Commands during the Debate, which would not admit of my doing it as I wish'd, & as I ought.

The Debate continued till past two o' clock,
& I flatter myself that will obtain your Majesty's Forgiveness for the inaccuracies of this Account.

Nov^r 25. 1763

Thursday, night 4 o' clock.

[Faint, illegible handwriting in cursive script, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.]

Mr. Grenville
November 25 1763